Hello everyone. We're in the middle of hot, steamy, and sticky weather in Atlanta. I do believe we're under some sort of heat warning. Or at least we should be. Temperatures in the 90's! I'm avoiding leaving my air-conditioned house, which is good for writing. So, Digital Destiny: Love and Tenacity in Silicon Valley, the third book in the Silicon Valley Romance series is on the horizon. I'm planning the release for late September and will keep you posted as the date approaches.

In this book, Emma and Jake's love story continues as they deal with internal demons and external life's surprises. Digital Destiny features the ultimate battle between CEOs, Ryan and Michael, on the corporate and romantic field. They both fight for control of AI technology and the love of Laura.

I'm Ryan, founder of BlueShark, a startup tech company. Emma and Jake join me to take this AI company to market in a whirlwind of success. But my archrival, Michael, seeks to crush BlueShark.

I'm Laura, Ryan's college sweetheart. We'll have a second chance at romance if we can thwart my-exhusband, Michael's, vicious attempts to obstruct our love.

Silicon Valley Review Team

I have some news and an opportunity. I have formed a review team, so I'm looking for readers to join the Silicon Valley review team! Would you like to apply and potentially receive a free copy of the first book in the series, Tangled Tech: Love and Intrigue in Silicon Valley in exchange for an honest review?

Click the link below, submit your application, and I'll be in touch!
